City Club of Missoula Presents:

COVID-19:

One Year Later

For the past year, Missoula and the world have endured the COVID-19 pandemic. Now, with the rollout of a vaccine, our collective attention is beginning to focus on recovery – not just from the disease, but from COVID-19's colossal impact on our economy, education and healthcare systems; i.e., on every aspect of our lives. How has Missoula changed as a result of COVID-19? What does the future look like? On February 8 at City Club Missoula (via Zoom, 11:30 a.m.-1 p.m.), three community leaders who have been at the forefront of Missoula's COVID-19 response will share their experience and insights. The forum is free, but registration is required.

Panelists:
Grant Kier, CEO, Missoula Economic Partnership

Joyce Dombrouski, Chief Executive, Providence Montana

Paula Short, Associate Vice President for Strategic Communications, University of Montana

Moderator:
Maritsa Georgiou, evening anchor, KECI/NBC Montana
