Hi all,

Here's and article about a cop (or people hunter as he puts it) who shot a black man with a cellphone in his hand... much like MPD Officer Patrick Malone, his body worn camera "malfunctioned" so there's no audio of the event.

By the way, I was part of the POST meeting for Corporal Patrick Malone's complaint recently. It was delayed because of a lack of response by our new MPD chief Jaeson White. Chief whites delayed response was over two months old at that time. Much like the ammo policy complaint which I made that was to be reviewed by the Missoula police commission, also delayed (indefinitely).

Maybe MPD wants to offer this Ohio deputy a job?

At least that way we would have some sort of idea of his professional history... it wouldn't be hidden away from the public like the never ending and secret DCI investigations, and secret disciplinary action that result every time MPD kills/beats people.

That Ohio deputy has got that shoot first ask questions later mentality your Missoula city police department seems to reward/foster so much... seems like a perfect fit. The Ohio deputy can lead the "really really small toy gun" MPD response unit.

I'm sure the city council majority would have no problem with that.

I draw that conclusion based on how silent the (predominantly pale faced) council majority is on questionable local policing practices, racial disparity in jail populations, racial profiling and overall acceptance of continued cruel/brutal treatment of citizens by MPD currently taking place in Missoula.

Correct me if I'm wrong but I believe MPD officers have killed an equal number of people this year as the "drug addicted/homeless."

During years past MPD has killed zero members of the public by way of officer involved shootings, guess were too progressive for that now.

We still have yet to learn the identity of the police officer involved in the latest shooting/killing during a MPD response.

Why?

The city attorneys office in conjunction with MPD and other city admin continues to delay and give erroneous police report information in hopes never releasing the information on the 1/15/2020 Officer shooting that transpired nearly a year ago now. Wow

I guess we should be accustom to this type of delay, incompetence and unfair treatment...

I mean it wasn't too long ago that the city/county attorneys, mayors office, MPD and university collaborated to hide/not prosecute rapes taking place in the community...

many of the same (predominantly pale) faces are still in power today.

I guess it's only natural to assume the same people who were hiding/not prosecuting rapes would progress to hiding/not prosecuting police brutality and murders next.

Checks out...

Have your collective hands fell asleep yet city council majority?

You all have been sitting on those hands for quite some time.

Maybe some of you would be better off retiring than weathering this next storm of public discontent regarding y'all's "professional performance."

You probably fancy yourselves as "executives" or something equally laughable.

Meanwhile you rubber stamp needless expenses and tout yourselves as progressive lol. The (predominantly pale faced) Mayors majority is about as "progressive" as the soup brand by the same name.

It's gotta be tough hearing all this from your constituents and refusing to lift a finger to investigate further or do anything of substance to remedy the situation.

That's assuming you all actually give a crap at all, DO YOU?

Show us!

Guess this is all part of that "high level"/"greater good" governing you all preach about so often. we regular people couldn't possibly understand. Wow, how enlightened.

Oh well, business as usual at Missoula city council I guess:

Pass agenda, hang your hat on cherry picked public comment/law, give lip service at best and cash checks for rich landowners and developers....

Checks out. We get it. You all are shamelessly moving the ball up the field with zero regard to the collateral damage you're inflicting on your own community members.

Thanks for your service mayor and majority. This sure is a perplexing "civic experiment" you all got going on.

Regards,

-Matts Larson
